I am using SQLite Cursor and the query is within an AsyncTask in a Retrofit service. The database is created in XML. @Dao public interface BookService { @Insert Book createBook(Book book); @Query("SELECT * FROM books WHERE id = ?") Book getBook(int id); } and this is my BookService.kt class BookService : BookService() { @Query("SELECT * FROM books WHERE id = ?") fun getBook(id: Int): Book { val query = db.query("books", null, "id=?", arrayOf(id)) return (db.moveToFirst()); createBook(null) } } The book object has a getId() method to get the id of the book object, and I use it to get the id of the row that I need. I need to do this to get the last created book. Bookbook = BookService.getBook(bookbook.getId()) book.save() A: Assuming you have a ContentValues object called values containing the values for the column you want, you could write the query like this: @Query("SELECT * FROM books WHERE id = ?") fun getBook(id: Int): Book { val query = db.query("books", null, "id=?", arrayOf(id)) val result = query.get(0)?; createBook(null) val columnValue = result.getColumn
