IMSI TurboCAD TurboCAD Pro Platinum 18.2 Build 73.1 KeygenQ: .NET - Get the date and time from a string I have the following date and time: 03/07/2017 09:00AM I'm trying to convert it into its date/time representation, but haven't been able to find a good method or wrapper function for it. How can I format it into something like: 02/07/2017 9:00AM? A: If the string represents a DateTime variable - and you're asking how to format that specific variable - then: `DateTime dt = DateTime.ParseExact("03/07/2017 09:00AM", "dd/MM/yyyy hh:mmtt", System.Globalization.CultureInfo.CurrentCulture)`
`Console.WriteLine(DateTime.Today.ToString("dd/MM/yyyy HH:mmtt", System.Globalization.CultureInfo.CurrentCulture))` will output: 02/07/2017 11:00AM Q: Monotouch/Xcode 4 - How to shrink my application when it's running on the iPhone? when my application is running on the iPhone, it occupies a big space on the screen. Is it possible to automatically shrink the application when it's running? If not, what is the best way to shrink the screen and reduce the application's size? A: It's possible to change the supported orientations of the application. This way, you can have your application in landscape mode or in portrait mode, depending on the size of the device, the window will resize accordingly. To do this, go to your project's info.plist file and edit the values for the Supported interface orientations. The documentation is not very clear on
