A: The command-line options are: -b for full-functionality mode (which enables the TCPO, Compreendendo o Volare) -p for simplified mode (which enables only the Listeria and printer) To run the full command-line mode you have to first make sure you have the required dependency packages installed (i.e. the Pinion required dependencies) and then: Setup. volare -b It should work from there (pinoa-1.4.8.tar.gz). Note that it only works with Python 3.5+ and the installer must be built from latest sources. The command-line options for the full-fuction mode are: -b for full-functionality mode -p for simplified mode A "simplified mode" option was added for the simplified mode to be able to easily switch between the two modes. This is the command line options for the simplified mode: volare -p In an effort to find the answer to a mystery birth defect, Grand Rapids General Hospital is conducting a genetic study of babies born with omphalocele, a congenital abdominal wall defect. "Studies have shown that about half of all cases of omphalocele have a genetic basis," said Tracey Greer, a public relations director at the hospital, who announced the study on its website. "Omphalocele is a birth defect that is entirely preventable." Researchers at GRGH hope to determine the mechanism of omphalocele through an outreach program with the public and families. And that will help determine the cost of future screening, the media relations director said. "Through this outreach, we hope to uncover why some infants are born with omphalocele," Greer said. "The program will ask families about their medical history, including if there were problems during pregnancy or at birth." Health screenings GRGH has received 14 families who have signed up for the outreach program. "I would say within the last week and a half, we've had a couple more families who contacted us," Greer said. "So that's very cool." The outreach effort is not the first time GRGH has had a similar program. "We've done family
